Tompkins, H. W. Draper.
Clark—Ida M. Campbell, Agnes Little,
Alice L. Hilditch, Lottie P. Magee.

Much Care Exercised.

In the selection of the teachers much care and consideration has been exercised. It was mutually agreed between the superintendent and the members of the Board of Education that not more than fifteen teachers should be entitled to attend a lecture. This observance of the rule has been strictly maintained.
Mr. Stuart will have a long list of names for consideration. Fifteen teachers are entitled to attend each of the prescribed lectures. Mr. Stuart will deliver lectures on the following subjects: Raymond, Carroll, Bibb, McPherson, Bartlett, MacVediz, and Hill, and Justice Harlan.

ARTISTS CONCLUDE PUBLISHERS' MEETING

Phn Prosecution of Gospel Work in All Countries of the Globe.

The Seventh Day Adventists, whose general headquarters are at Takoma park, have concluded a two weeks' council and publishers' convention, extending from September 27 to October 10. Besides the general conference officers and members of the executive committee there were in attendance some eighty delegates, composed of State conference presidents, authors, editors, and publishers from different parts of the United States, Canada, India, and Europe. The object of this general meeting was to plan for the prosecution of gospel work in all nations, special consideration being devoted to the matters of printing and publishing Biblical literature in the different languages of the world.

AS A LAST RESOURCE.

An Atlenton man who is bald has tried all the hair restoratives without result and even a lot of powder. In the hope of causing feathers to grow on his head, now he will try alfalfa.
It grows everywhere, says Atlenton (Express) Globe.

RECEIVES $4,000 BALM FOR MASSEUR'S BLUNDER

MRS. FLORENCE T. ELDER, Whose Beauty Was Marred by Masseur.

Beauty of Woman's Cheek Marred by Appli- cation of Acid

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Four thousand dollars is the value a common pleas jury has set upon Mrs. Florence T. Elder's beauty, after an hour's deliberation.

The damage suit brought by Mrs.
Elder against Fowler & Hanna, the Chestnut street massage firm, for a slight facial blanching was concluded before Judge Anderson today by a verdict which awarded the fair plaintiff $3,750 as compensation for "a tiny red spot" on her cheek and $750 to her husband for the loss of her compensation while she was suffering from the pain caused thereby.

The amount of the verdict evidently surprised Judge Anderson, who remarked that $4,000 for a burnt cheek seemed rather liberal when in a case of a woman's face of $500 a woman received only $1,500 for the loss of her husband by death.

But Mrs. Elder had set even a higher value upon her beauty by demanding $10,000 for the burn which temporarily marred her good looks, and, as she says, seriously interfered with her business as an insurance agent.

According to her story, told in court, it is necessary to sit close to her clients in many cases when soliciting insurance, and the accident, Mrs. Elder claimed, not only marred the soft peachiness of her cheek, but made her husband's face look like a red spot.

thin, however, shows no apparent effect of the injury.

Mrs. Elder entered the courtroom in a stately, dignified manner with the air of a much-injured woman, and immediately turned upon the jury the full battery of her appealing brown eyes.

She was attractively gowned in a brown tailored suit with cuffs and turn-down collar of red velvet. With this she wore a chic black hat, a lace waist and a girdle of red leather.

In the Limekiln Before.

She has been in the public eye before, having come into prominence about two years ago when she used a horse whip on a pretty school teacher, who, she asserted, had been attentive to her husband, a Norristown dentist.

Since this episode, the domestic relations of the couple have been somewhat strained, and Mrs. Elder has been living in Atlantic City when it is not necessary for her to be in town on business connected with her work. But all was forgotten at the door of the court room, and Mrs. Elder gave his testimony in his wife's behalf.

Miss Nelson, the attendant who treated Mrs. Elder at the time of the accident, and on many previous occasions, was the first witness called. She testified that the plaintiff had been a regular patron of the Fowler & Hanna, the Chestnut street massage firm, for some time past and that while a facial massage was being given to her, she had been in the habit of using peroxide in the treatment given to Mrs. Elder. She declared that it was at Mrs. Elder's request that she used the peroxide. She also testified that Mrs. Elder had confided to her that she had been suffering from nervous prostration and that the burning of the plaintiff's cheek had caused only "a little red spot."

Admitted Accident Severe.

Miss Nelson admitted, however, under cross-examination that she, considering the accident severe enough to warrant her accompanying the sufferer to Broad street station and volunteering to go with her to Norristown. Some sixteen days later she paid a visit to Mrs. Elder at her home and found her in bed.

Dr. W. P. Roberts, of 721 North 21st street, who called to see the plaintiff the evening following the accident, testified that he found her in bed with her face "burned up" in a "red spot" which he pointed the finger at her forehead and the quantity of ointment which he used in the case. He also testified that the burn on the cheek covered a space of about two inches, "a red spot" he described it as "showing three or four small blisters and not very sensitive to the touch."

He testified that Mrs. Elder told him that she was suffering from nervous prostration.

The plaintiff, while admitting that she had some little domestic trouble, emphatically declared her nervous condition and inability to attend to her insurance business were due to the injury sustained.

EASILY CONJECTURED.

"I see you had ham and eggs for breakfast," observed the amateur detective with a faraway, inscrutable, Sherlock H. Gillette look in his eyes.
"Yes," exclaimed the man in the red-dressed Prince Albert, frowning darkly; "you inferred the eggs, mayhap from the traces of me heard. But you guessed the rest, be love!"

"Not at all. 'Ham' is written all over you."

She Was Always Odd, Says Brother of Girl Who Would Be Slave

Edward Magie, of Washington, Thinks Woman Who Offered Herself for Sale Wants Free Advertising.

"She was always odd,"
This was the only explanation offered by Edward R. Magie, of 23 Seaton place northwest, a brother of Miss Elizabeth Magie, the girl who has startled Chicago by advertising herself for sale to the highest bidder.

"My sister, who is well, I won't say how old she is—has always been erratic and every once in a while she does things which no one else would even think of doing. Is she sincere? Well, I can best answer that, but my personal opinion is that she is out after newspaper notoriety, and seems to have connected with it in this particular instance," continued Mr. Magie.

Chicago awoke recently to read the following sensational advertisement, which started forth from the pages of a half-dozen newspapers:

Girls for Sale Ad.
"For sale to the highest bidder."
"Young woman American slave."

"Intelligent, educated, refined, true, honest, just, poetical, philosophical; broad-minded and big-souled—and womanly above all things."
"Brunette; large gray-green eyes; splendid teeth."
"Age—well, she isn't very old, but she wasn't born yesterday."

"Artistic temperament; warm, generous heart; kind, gentle, affectionate disposition; at times bubbling over with merriment and vivacity."
"Rare and versatile dramatic ability; a born entertainer; strong bohemian characteristics; can appreciate a good story and also tell one—not a bit bit-tish—at the same time she is deeply and truly religious—not pious."

"A student of psychology and possesses unusual psychic powers herself."
"She doesn't go to church, but she does obey the laws of God. It's pretty hard lines for a man that's down, but it's ten times worse for a woman."

The authorship of this most extraordinary advertisement is accredited to Miss Elizabeth Magie, formerly a Washington girl, but who has been in the Windy City since July. Wielders of the stylus and indelible of the parchment forthwith indented themselves to the domicile of the girl, who thinks so little of her liberty as to advertise for sale, and were bent upon engaging her in conversation. She would have none of them, however, but served a peremptory writ of ouster on them and the motives which actuated her in this course remain a mystery unless she changes her mind.

At the Magie home in Washington on Seaton place northwest, a representative of The Times was told that the family was ever at a loss to account for the girl's vagaries. She was a stenographer in Washington for many years and is well known.

In addition to other accomplishments, she is said to be a versatile writer, and possesses a little dramatic ability. She is described by her relatives as being strikingly handsome and they say she has not gone beyond the bounds of moderation in the description of herself.

According to her brother, she left the family homestead and went to New York several months ago. July again saw her on the wing, with Chicago as her destination, where she has lived since.

Edw. Magie has written lots of stories for magazines, and has had a book of poems published, said Mr. Magie. "I honestly think that she is simply doing this stunt for the free advertisement, and the odds are great that she will do or try on an innocent and unsuspecting public. I hope, however," said Mr. Magie, "that she is not as crazy as Mary MacLane is said to have been."

It is the opinion of people who know her, that she is perpetrating an advertising joke on the country with the intention of capturing some of its restless money.

Odd Girl Tosses Plea of Friends Out the Window

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Miss Elizabeth Magie, who asserts she is the "slave of systems," and offered herself for sale to the highest bidder, says that she has received a number of bids accompanied by offers of marriage, but she has not yet investigated the financial, social or mental condition of the bidders.

"That was the nature of these proposals," Miss Magie said.
"Oh, dear me—I couldn't think of telling. Honor, you know. There is honor even among white slaves."

While she seeks a high bid, she wants some brains, talent or character with it. She was indignant because many had put a wrong interpretation on her "for sale" plea.

"I have received telegrams from friends," she said, "telling me how foolish I am. Perhaps I am, but I don't think so. I am only doing what other women would like to do, but dare not."

"Miss Magie is very nearly right in her views," declared Miss Eva Miller, of the Business Woman's League. "She could double, more than double, her salary, probably, were she willing to sell her personality and become both servant and entertainer to her employer." She has chosen another method. If she makes a good bargain, she is apt to better herself.

Miss Magie belongs to the single tax party and has strong inclinations toward socialism.

"I am a slave now," she said, "to the slavery of the system, the code, the conventional theory. Instead, I propose to be a slave to some man who will be good to me. I've tossed the code of conventionalities out of the window."

Turn Your Face Into Dollars.

Many a Man Has Failed Because His Face Was a Picture of Calamity.

It takes sunshine to produce a rose, a perfect nose. And so man, to be successful, must have sunshine inside. The life which has it not, which has no health and no happiness, is sour, surly, pessimistic, and a failure. The world already has too many vinegar faces that breathe ill-will and strife. The world wants joy, comfort, sunshine, and will cling to the man who has it, who radiates gladness and triumph wherever he is and under all circumstances.

Some people have a genius for seeking out the disagreeable, the crooked, the bad and the ugly. These are the excitables; they travel to schools, they herd together for they love their kind, and the cheerful part of the world will have nothing to do with them.

And why is it that so many peddle disaster knowing at the same time that if they do, their lives will be ruined?
Some people cannot help it. It is a sinistralism usually comes from bodily disorders, and this cannot always be prevented. The stomach, for instance, has the most common cause of discontent, sour face, recklessness, disgust, and lack of ambition. A bad stomach—there is the root of many a failure. Anyone can have a good stomach, a strong stomach, a stomach that can take care of itself, and everything else will be put into it, no matter whether it is a very bad stomach now or not. Then why not have it?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this very thing. One ingredient of these little tablets digests 3,000 grains of food, and no matter how bad is your dyspepsia or indigestion, these tablets will dis-gest everything in your stomach, thoroughly and completely, and better and quicker than a healthy stomach can do the same thing. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will increase your appetite, sensations, nausea, heartburn, eructations, loss of vim and spirit, bad memory, and dyspepsia and indigestion in their very worst forms.

No other little tablets in the world do so much. No matter how bad is your Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets around with you wherever you go and take them after meals. Then only will you realize what it is to enjoy a meal, and what perfect digestion means. Your whole body and your mind will feel the effect. Your vim will increase, you will be more satisfied with what the world does, you will think happier and be happier. Your face will be one of supreme contentment. That will bring you success and then more success.
Your face will bring you dollars. It will cost you just for a package of these wonderful Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, at any drug store on earth.
